77	Alifu Dhaalu – Places of Interest	Fenfushi is without doubt a must for those in search of the fundamental aspects of Maldivian tradition. The inhabitants were skilful sculptors and carvers of coral and their art is still to be seen on the finely decorated walls of the island's mosque and the tombstones in the nearby cemetery. The Friday Mosque in the capital was engraved in madrepora by craftsmen from Fenfushi during the rule of the Sultan Mohamed Ibn Al Haj Ali (1692-1701). Another place of interest in South Ari is the Cultural Centre in the village of Dhangheti. The centre reproduces certain types of ancient Maldivian houses and exhibits numerous objects associated with daily life in the Maldives as it once was. Several deserted islands are suitable for a good swim or some excellent snorkelling. These include: Dhiggiri, Innafushi, Bulhalohi and Hurasdhoo, also known by the locals as Pineapple Island because, years ago, one of the locals tried to turn it into a pineapple plantation.
